

Help for a Physician in Trouble

It happens! Eventually there are just too many mistakes regarding the interpretation of 12-lead ECGs and an ultimatum is issued: demonstrate improvement in your ability to interpret 12-lead ECGs or face losing your hospital privileges. And if the State Board of Medical Examiners is issuing the demand, an otherwise very good, hard-working physician could face a suspension or even loss of his/her medical license.

We can help! It is always imperative that the mandated CME be completed as soon as possible to avoid time off work and the scheduling headaches that always follow. For this reason, we can expedite a full Advanced ECG Interpretation Boot Camp – all four days! – as a live, private tutorial event. In fact, we can accommodate up to two participants per session.

There is always a lot of flexibility with these situations because we have the time to specifically address the physician's weakest areas of ECG skill as well as focus on the specific items that contributed to the peer review.

Contact Jerry W. Jones, MD FACEP by email (jwjmd@medicusofhouston.com) or phone (713-931-5423) for more information.